Foreign service officer exams set for Dec. 10

The United States Department of State will hold its next written Foreign Service Officer Examination on December 10, 1960.

In announcing the examination the Department is seeking to interest undergraduate and graduate students who have studied in such fields as economics, public and business administration, language and area studies, history and political science.

To be eligible to take this examination, candidates must be at least 21 and under 31 years of age as of October 24, 1960. Persons 20 years of age may also apply if a college graduate or a senior in college. They must be American citizens of at least 9 years' standing.

Although a candidate's spouse need not be a citizen on the date of the examination, citizenship must have been obtained prior to the date of appointment.

Candidates who are successful in the one-day written examination, which tests their facility in English expression, general ability and background, will be given oral examinations within nine months by panels which will meet in regional centers throughout the United States.

Fluency in a language, while not an examination requirement, must be attained before an officer can advance in the Service. Those candidates who pass the oral test will then be given a physical examination and a background investigation. If found qualified in all respects, candidates will be placed on a register and appointments will be made therefrom as needed, in the order of examination scores.

The names of candidates failing to receive appointments within 30 months from the date of the written examination will be removed from this register. Upon appointment, the candidate will receive three commissions from the President—as Foreign Service Officer Class 8, as Secretary in the Diplomatic Service, and as Vice Counsel of Career.

A newly appointed Foreign Service Officer may serve his first tour of duty either in the Department's headquarters in Washington, D.C., or at one of the 289 American Embassies, Legations, and Consulates abroad. The new officer may be assigned to several functions to give him varied training and experience in consular work, in administrative assignments, including ones in the accounting and management fields, and in political, economics, international finance and commercial reporting.

Halleck relaxes at St. Joe game

Danforth Foundation invites applications from college seniors for 1961 fellowships

The Danforth Foundation, an educational Foundation located in St. Louis, Mo., invites applications for the tenth class (1961) of Danforth Graduate Fellows from college senior men and recent graduates who are preparing themselves for a career of college teaching, and are planning to enter graduate school in September, 1961, for their first year of graduate study.

The Foundation welcomes applicants from the areas of natural and biological sciences, social sciences, humanities and all fields of specialization to be found in the undergraduate college.

Fr. Raphael Gross has named Fr. Edward A. Maziarz as the Liason Officer to nominate to the Danforth Foundation two or not to exceed three candidates for these 1961 fellowships. These appointments are fundamentally "a relationship of encouragement" throughout the years of graduate study, carrying a promise of financial aid within prescribed conditions as there may be need.

The maximum annual grant for single Fellows is $1500 plus tuition and fees charged to all graduate students; for married Fellows, $1200 plus tuition and fees charged to all graduate students with an additional stipend of $500 for each child. Students with or without financial need are invited to apply.

A Danforth Fellow is allowed to carry other scholarship appointments, such as Rhodes, Fulbright, Woodrow Wilson, Marshall, etc., concurrently with his Danforth Fellowship, and applicants for these appointments are cordially invited to apply at the same time for a Danforth Fellowship. If a man received the Danforth Appointment, together with a Rhodes Scholarship, Fulbright Scholarship, or Woodrow Wilson Fellowship he becomes a Danforth Fellow without stipend, until these other relationships are completed.

All Danforth Fellows will participate in the annual Danforth Foundation Conference on Teaching, to be held at Camp Miniwanca in Michigan next September, 1961.

The qualifications of the candidates as listed in the announcement from the Foundation are: men of outstanding academic ability, personality congenial to the classroom, and integrity and character, including serious inqdiry within the Christian tradition.

All applications, including the recommendations, must be completed by Jan. 15, 1961. Any student wishing further information should get in touch with Fr. Maziarz.

Stuff will continue Man of Month award

The "Man of the Month" contest will be sponsored by Stuff again this year as it has been in the past.

Any student is eligible to be named "Man of the Month" if he meets the qualifications of consistent good scholarship and service to the college. The award is given each month to the qualified student who has performed the greatest service to the college, be he athlete, officer, scholar or organization man.

Each month's winner is selected by a special committee made up of the class presidents, and inter-club chairman. This year's committee includes presidents Larry Kelly, Fred Weber, and Paul Andorfer, inter-club chairman Art Mueller, and John Babione, associate editor of Stuff who will serve as an interim member until a freshman class president is elected.

Phi Eta Sigma initiates SJC's charter group

By GLENN CLAUSEN

You can always get rid of freshmen who don't make their indexes, but what can you do to encourage budding scholars? Phi Eta Sigma, national honor fraternity founded in 1923 for the purpose of promoting freshman scholarship, is the answer to this puzzler at St. Joseph's.

The installation banquet was held in the college cafeteria on Sept. 26. Seventeen students who had made a 3.50 cumulative in their freshman year were inducted into the fraternity.

Fr. Aloys A. Dirksen, professor of theology, knocked the foibles of the scholar and those who label themselves as scholars. "It's so easy to put a label on something, without knowing what the label stands for in the world."

Alluding to biblical studies, the white haired priest struck out in a humorous way at those who would turn scholarship into a rigged quiz show.

Fr. Edward A. Maziarz, academic dean, introduced the honored guest of the evening, Dean James E. Foy, grand secretary of Phi Eta Sigma.

Mr. Foy, dean of students at Auburn University, spoke on the history and traditions of the honor society. Thirty seven years ago a small group of men at the University of Illinois gave birth to the fraternity which has spread to almost every state of the union.

Before Mr. Foy presented the charter he explained to the new brothers the different uses their seven dollar entrance fee into the national fraternity would be put to.

He told of the national convention to be held at S. Illinois University in November, the fraternity magazine, study aids, and his faith in the future of the new chapter in Pumaville.

Initiation ceremony was performed in the auditorium before the banquet. At that time the new members pledged themselves to the ideals of the society and received their Phi Eta Sigma pins.

Officers of the chapter are: William Kennedy, president; Dennis Brestensky, vice-president; William Gruszewski, secretary; and David Markey, treasurer.

The 17 students inducted into the new honor society are: John Babione, Ronald Bonato, Brestensky, John Conlon, James Crook, Joseph Fitzgerald, Thomas Fletchall, Gruszewski, Kennedy, James McCauley, Markey, Joseph Murray, Elmer Paris, Charles Schuttrow, Albert Stec, Dean VanLeirsburg, and Daniel Zawila.

Gridders' need for student support shown against DePauw

The Pumas have come to life . . . and we don't mean just the football team. The difference between the N.E. Missouri game and the DePauw game was deafening.

In their opener against Missouri, St. Joe had no part of the usual home field advantage. The crowd was dead. From the very beginning, the fans just sat there like the proverbial bumps on a log.

And the fault for this sudden quietude on the part of the student spectators cannot be laid to the showing of the football Pumas. The Big Red line made a good Missouri offense bleed for every yard it gained. St. Joe was only one touchdown behind at halftime, and the last two Bulldog scores came in the final period when more than sheer fatigue was catching up with the weary Pumas. The indifferent silence of the Pumas in the stands had begun to infect the Pumas on the field.

But it was an altogether different story against DePauw. The Puma fans buried their shyness of the week before and let the DePauw team know they were on unfriendly ground. And when the Big Red needed encouragement most, they got it.

During the past two years, a St. Joe score in the last quarter has become a rarity. For that reason, things looked pretty bleak when the Tigers took a 7-0 lead in the final minutes of the third period.

Had it not been for the contagious enthusiasm of the fans in the stands, the game probably would have ended that way. But a very tired Puma squad was fired up . . . and determined. They marched to the tying touchdown with about two minutes left to play.

What did these two games prove? Well, they showed that it isn't a lot of bunk about a college football team needing the support of the students. Anything can happen in a game like football. And spirit is one of the most important intangibles that goes into the making of a successful season.

We hope the Puma fans have learned their lesson. We hope they never again let down their fellow Pumas on the field the way they did against Missouri.

Reviews at random

By GLENN CLAUSEN

And on the sixth day mankind destroyed what God had created to His image and likeness. Misguided nationalists, loyal patriots, callous dealers in human lives, combined with the large masses of politically ignorant workers, lovers, and phoney intellectuals to destroy human life.

Hans Hellmut Kirst presents a panorama of the world a week before World War III in his anatomy of the last mass murder.

Kirst picks his native Germany as the setting for the final act of the human comedy. Brother destroys brother in a world which has plunged so far into deception and vice that honesty and virtues applauded by each side's propagandists cause only chaos and confusion.

Teen-age lovers in all their innocence are contrasted by women and men who have lived too long in the filth they have grown to hate and yet pursue. Prussian militarists, cooly intelligent, are opposed in Kirst's work by hot blooded youths shouting for freedom which is beyond their grasp. Capitalists whose only thoughts are of bigger and better contrasts thwart political idealists who think too long and act too late.

This book was first published in 1957, before the now famous On the Beach. It is written in what appears at first glance to be much the same style—short glimpses into the lives of typical people faced with ultimate destruction.

However, Kirst, in my opinion, has based his work solidly on the known realities of European affairs and German politics, both Eastern and Western, which makes his book more than a piece of prose fiction. The Seventh Day gives the readers the feeling of reality, a monster to dreamers and schemers, creeping up for its final charge on a blind and self-weakened victim.

Noon Mass will be scheduled for the convenience of the students at the Calumet Center on the first Friday of October. The Mass will be offered by one of the priests from the Center in Immaculate Conception Church, two blocks southeast of the campus. It is hoped this will be a regularly scheduled Mass during the school year.

Plans for the Calumet Center bowling league were drawn up at a meeting held last weekend. A bowling club composed of the students will elect officers Monday, Sept. 26, when the group bowls at the East Chicago Bowling Lanes. Handicaps will also be established on Monday.

Teams will be selected by a committee to be appointed by the officers. Each team will be composed of a mixed group. The club hopes to be able to challenge the bowling team from Rensselaer during the year. Plans to join the intercollegiate bowling league are being discussed.

Father Cletus Kern, registrar, reports that the final and absolute count of students attending the Center this semester will be available on Monday. The current guess as to how many scholars are enrolled has it that there are well over 500 students taking courses at the Center. The response to the offering of a four-year course in East Chicago has been more than encouraging to the officials at the school.

Rehearsals of the College Chorus began Friday, Sept. 23, as twenty singers filed into the hall. Under the direction of Miss Rosemarie Scozzaro, the group plans to give a concert at Christmas time.

The choristers are extrememly fortunate to have the services of Miss Scozzaro. She is an accomplished musician and a concert pianist who has performed in New York's Carnegie Hall. Formerly a resident of Trenton, N. J., Miss Scozzaro was well known for her piano concerts in Philadelphia, as well as New York and Trenton.

Experienced vocalists and instrumentalists are invited to join.

The campaign trail will soon blaze the halls of Calumet Center as students begin to campaign for offices on the student council. Plans are now being formulated to hold the elections Oct. 17.

Circulars describing the various offices of the council were distributed this week. In addition to a president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer, the student council will have class presidents and elected representatives from each of the divisions of the Calumet Center.

Political activity will be climaxed by speeches to be given by the candidates in the Voge theatre, on Oct. 14.

Thinking men prefer

By JOE MURRAY

In comparison with most other Catholic colleges, the disciplinary code at St. Joseph's is most liberal. What is your opinion of discipline at St. Joseph's? What changes, if any, would you like to see in the disciplinary structure here at school?

Bill DeJean, freshman, Evansville, Ind.

The disciplinary rules of a school should be aimed towards the welfare and well-being of all the students. As a new student at St. Joseph's, I haven't, as yet, become familiar with all the rules of this college. In contact with only a few, I've found that they seemed to be a bit on the juvenile side. The disciplinary board should, therefore, keep foremost in mind that these rules are made for college students and not for grammar school children.

Bill Downard, sophomore, Cincinnati, O.

The discipline at St. Joseph's is, in my opinion, entirely too thorough and too strict. After all, this is a college and not a nursery, and I think the students are old enough to warrant more leniency. As for changes in the disciplinary structure, I would like to see the abolishment of the mass card system and the extension of the 25 mile limit to 50 miles.

Jim Ellsworth, sophomore, Monticello, Ind.

In any society, we must have laws and regulations governing the members of that society. But if any of those laws or regulations are detrimental to the best interests of that society, then they should be abolished. In my opinion, one regulation of St. Joseph's is most detrimental: this is the 11:30 lights out law for freshmen and sophomores.

Bob Gurzick, junior, Detroit, Mich.

All things considered, I feel the discipline at school is very fair. While I approve wholehearterly of the prefect system, I feel that the disciplinary committee should exercise more care in the selections of prefects. Also, I believe that the regulations against drinking at St. Joseph's are most tolerant.

Larry McKay, junior, Downer's Grove, Ill.

I am a firm believer in the old adage that "you can't please all the people all the time." As such, I know that no disciplinary code would please all the students here at school. But I feel that the rules and regulations of this college were designed with the students' best interests at heart and I think most of the students are aware of this. The disciplinary structure, as it now stands is perfectly agreeable to me.

Bill Fischer, senior, Owosso, Mich.

I feel the disciplinary code here at school is quite liberal and most adequate. The only changes I would advocate concern certain regulations for the sophomores. I don't feel the sophomores should be compelled to take a study period each night. In the same vein, I feel that sophomores who have to study after lights out should be given permission to leave the lights on in their rooms. This would be done on an honorary basis; violators of this permission would lose this privilege in the future.

Bill Zleit, senior, Kansas City, Mo.

As an individual who is beginning his senior year as well as embarking upon his second year as a student prefect I feel that I am fairly well acquainted with the disciplinary system as it exists at St. Joseph's—While "discipline" is something which is usually viewed negatively by many students here I feel that, compositively speaking, not only does St. Joseph's have a very effective system but one whose effect is a better student body.

Puma asks for promised track

Dear Editor:

I am glad to see that the Student Council is aware of the Athletic situation.

I am amused though by Stuff's references to the campus improvements. All these are good; we are happy to see them. But is this consistent—the College builds a new entrance, etc. but does not follow through on the TRACK program. And this means a whole lot more to 1100 fellows than some bricks.

I ran track last spring. The Athletic Director promised at the banquet to fix up the track (just some loose big cinders) and get hurdles. WHERE ARE THEY? The "track" for a college which makes all these improvements is a shame.

If the Athletic Department announces that we "have track" how about more than just the announcement?

Also, there are 1100 students and still only 3 coaches, one less than before.

Student council opens year; Fr. Otte outlines program for President's Reception

The first Student Council meeting of the 1960-1961 school year, which was held on Monday evening, Sept. 19, was highlighted by an address by Fr. Joseph Otte, C.PP.S.

Speaking before a group of sixty or more faculty members, students and Council members, Fr. Otte outlined the program for the annual President's Reception to be held this year on Sunday, Oct. 23. The Council pledged its support of the Day, designed to offer parents and students of St. Joseph's the opportunity to become acquainted with the administration, the faculty and the campus.

The meeting was then addressed by the Student Council moderator Mr. Richard Flynn, who pointed out that the Council could make many worthwhile accomplishments this year with the cooperation of the student body. Flynn stated that too many students pass by the opportunity to have their gripes answered by not reporting them to the Council.

Committee reports were followed by reports from each of the class presidents. It was disclosed by athletic committee chairman Dave Cook that a new cheerleading staff composed of two girls and three boys would make its debut at the DePauw game. Following the report from the athletic committee it was announced that James Sullivan had been appointed chairman of the welfare committee.

Well, if the early season keeps running true to form, St. Joe is due for a victory this Saturday. We lose our first game and then break even in our second, so the next logical step is a Puma victory. As the old cliche goes, easier said than done. The Pumas will be battling the always tough Butler Bulldogs, last year's ICC champs. The game will be on the Bulldog's home field in Indianapolis. Here again we have the case of trying to beard the lion in his own den.

Come what may, the next two games will tell the tale for the Pumas. After the Butler encounter St. Joe takes on Wheaton, the perennial powerhouse of the College Conference of Illinois. These two games constitute the toughest part of the 1960 schedule.

The N.E. Missouri game saw the Bulldogs' Mills living up to what we had heard about him. Besides the offensive magic of Mills, the Bulldogs also exhibited a sturdy defense, holding the Pumas scoreless.

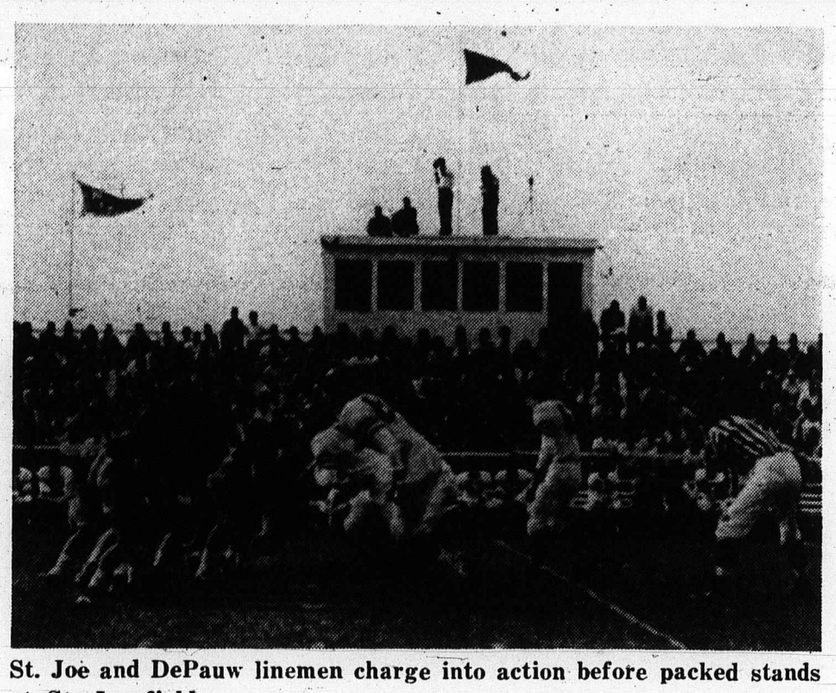
The DePauw clash was a fine example of why coaches get old before their time. The Pumas looked good in most respects except in punt returning where bad bounces and bad judgement kept them deep in their own territory. As a matter of fact, statistically speaking, the Pumas dominated the game. St. Joe was way ahead in rushing and in first downs. The lack of punt returning or even an attempt at it is what hurt us. You can be sure some time will be spent on that at this week's practices. The Pumas did look very good, though, on the ground, especially on their scoring drive with time running out in the final period. Key plays in that drive were the fourth down runs which were successful.

This year's St. Joe team cannot of course be compared to the teams of a few years ago which dominated the ICC. However, it is a good team. The Big Red's strength lies in their hard hitting, experienced line, so they may have to depend more on defense this year than in past seasons. There is lack of experienced reserve strength however, and this could be fatal. Injuries to key personnel always hurt a team, but in the case of the Pumas it would be exceptionally hard to take.

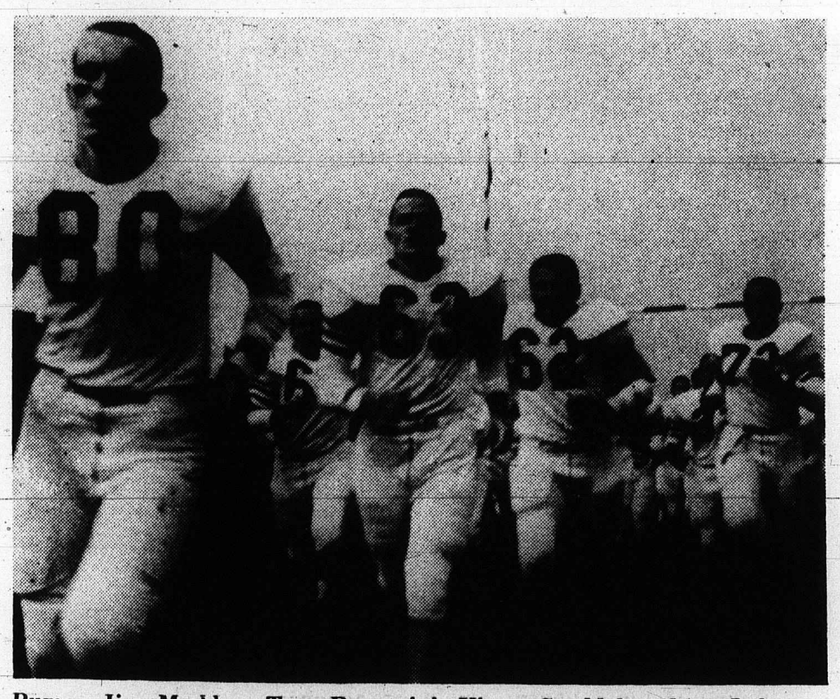
If the Pumas can stay healthy, this can still be a very good year. The improved quarterbacking of Ralph Gardner and Dave Beam in the DePauw game, and the hard running of the backs showed us the potential of the backfield corps. This coupled with the experienced front line can make the Pumas a rugged outfit.

Before closing we would like to say a few words about a real hustler. El Eschman incurred a concussion at a practice session last week. He was then confined to the hospital and the infirmary for several days after that. El had been injured before in the last couple years, but he kept coming back with his tremendous desire for the game. This last injury has put him out for the year, and most probably, for good. On the field or off, he is still a credit to St. Joe's and football.

Pumas surge back to score late TD, tie DePauw Tigers



St. Joe and DePauw linemen charge into action before packed stands at St. Joe field.



Pumas Jim Madden, Tom Buscarini, Vince Goeddeke, Otto Lehman, and Jim Dempsey take the field to face DePauw in ICC opener.

By HUGH MARTINELLI

St. Joe opened the ICC season at Pumaville Sept. 24 with a 7-7 tie against the DePauw Tigers. The hard charging Puma line held DePauw to a very low total of 63 yards gained and only 2 first downs. Throughout the afternoon the Tiger quarterbacks were harassed by the aggressive Pumas.

The first half was mostly a battle of determined defensive lines. Early in the first quarter, DePauw's Perry Gillette blocked a punt on the Puma 19. But the threat was halted when DePauw suarterback Rubush fumbled and Puma end Mick Byrne recovered.

Lighting fast action highlighted the second quarter. Puma tackle Dennis Mudd made the DePauw quarterback eat the ball on two successive plays for a total of 20 yards. Ralph Gardner, Puma Q.B., stopped a DePauw drive by intercepting a pass on the Puma 11 yard line after DePauw had picked up a bad pass from center on the Puma 20. A Puma drive late in the first half ended when an attempted field goal by Beran was blocked by DePauw's Gillette.

DePauw opened the scoring in the third quarter when halfback Sketters lateraled to Morrison on the 6, Morrison carrying for the touchdown. The play covered 18 yards. Hart kicked the extra point. The touchdown was made possible by a punt return to the Puma 24.

St. Joe's touchdown late in the game was spearheaded by the hard driving fullback George Connelly. The T.D. march started on the DePauw 47 and was capped as Gardner danced into the end zone from the 7 yeard line. Beran added the conversion with only minutes remaining. DePauw fumbled the kickoff but recovered, and ran out the clock.

George Connelly led the Pumas with 66 yards and a 4.13 average. He was followed closely by halfback John Mirocha who gained 61 yards for a 3.81 average. Gardner completed 8 of 17 passes with end Jim Madden grabbing 4.

Sociology study delivered by Art Mueller before summer convention at Fordham

Art Mueller, senior sociology major at St. Joseph's College presented to the American Catholic Sociological Society Convention held at Fordham University last summer, a study that was done on the St. Joseph College campus last year.

The title of the study is: A Sociological Analysis of the Significance of Leadership as an Independent Variable in Determining the Success of Clubs. The hypothesis of the study is: the relative success or failure of clubs on the St. Joseph's College campus, as measured by group goals depend primarily on the quality of leadership.

Through observation, discussion, and research in the sociological and psychological literature, diverse theories concerning leadership were accumulated to determine the importance of leadership qualities to group success.

Using Scientific methods, an instrument to measure leader success was constructed and administered to the 14 social, academic and religious clubs on the St. Joseph campus. A table of random numbers was used to draw a sample of 188 out of the total 713 members.

The only persons excluded from the sample of the clubs were the presidents of the clubs to be studied and the five members of the sociology research team which included: Carl Reichwein, Thomas Carpenter, Robert Grotemat and Catherine Stage, besides Mueller.

These leader and group success scores given by the club members were compiled and a statistical analysis of them began. A Rank Coefficient of Correlation was obtained to determine if the hypothesis was correct. If the theory were perfect the Correlation of Coefficient would be 1.00.

The Correlation Coefficient obtained in this study is .86 which is very high and tends to show a relatively high positive relationship between the success of the leader and the success of the group.

Further cross correlation studies will be done to add depth to the findings and determine whether the instrument can be assumed to be a valid test of the relationship between leader and group success.

Five St. Joe students studying in Europe

Five St. Joseph's students are spending their current school year abroad. One is studying in Munich under the Junior Year Abroad Program. The other four men are studying at the University of Aix-Marselle in Aix-en-Province, France; they are there in accordance with the Institute for American Universities plan.

Patrick J. Goedert, a junior in sociology, from River Forest, Ill., is studying in Munich. He speaks German fluently and carries well above a 3.0 index.

The four juniors studying in France are: Thomas J. Blake, a business major from South Bend, Ind.; Howard D. Glatzel, an accounting major from Lafayette, Ind.; George M. Marchal, an English major from Greenville, O.; and Paul J. Zumbiel, a special student from Ft. Mitchell, Ky.

New cheerleaders debut with DePauw

A new corps of cheerleaders has been organized by Dave Cook, chairman of the Student Council athletic committee. The new group will perform at all home football and basketball games.

The leader of the group is Bill (Weasel) DeJean, a freshman. Other members are Dave Marchessault and co-eds Patricia Klaus and Audrey Urbanczyk, all freshmen.

Besides these four, two girls from the Calumet Center are also expected to lead the Pumas in cheering their athletes. All of the cheerleaders have had cheerleading experience in high school.

Butler backs to test Pumas' rugged line

By ROGER THOMAS

This coming weekend the St. Joe football team takes on the defending ICC champions, Butler, at Indianapolis.

After reading Butler's Football Preview, I was ready to count them out of the race for a repeat performance of last season. Butler's coach, Tony Hinkle, claims that their big problem is inexperience. After all, they lost 16 seniors via graduation. Among them were Jim Ringer, ICC Lineman of the Year in 1959, and Walt Stockslager, a Little All-American tackle.

I disregarded their propaganda sheet and went out and obtained some reliable information. This is what I came up with. They have a backfield that has been playing together for three years. It is composed of Phil Long at quarterback, Elmer O'Banion and John Skirchak at the halfbacks and Gary Green at fullback. Green averaged 6.4 yards per carry last season. I wonder how long they have to play together before they will be considered experienced?

The lineman are also an established unit. Another factor is that Mr. Hinkle has three units that he uses throughout the game.

The statistics from their 40-7 victory over Wabash are as follows: 255 yards rushing, and 190 yards passing.

In summary, Butler has a better than average ball club, and they will be tough.

Dwyer takes over as intramural chief

Coach Ed Dwyer has been named director of the intra-mural sports program at St. Joe. He succeeds Mr. Robert Shemky who was reassigned last year.

Norb Daigle, a senior, will be one of Coach Dwyer's student assistants. An additional student assistant will be named later.

Coach Dwyer will continue in his other assignments as assistant football coach, and head coach of tennis, track, and wrestling.

The announcement was made by Fr. Richard Baird, Athletic Director, last Monday.

Club News

The Accounting club, newly formed by St. Joe accounting majors to enrich and futher the goals of their specialized academic interest, held its opening meeting on the evening of Sept. 19. Club moderator Mr. Richard Flynn and club president Leo Klemme revealed that guest speakers representing various phases of the accounting profession will address the club during the year to acquaint students with accounting as it exists in everyday practice.

The club also anticipates holding field trips to public accounting and industrial firm offices for views of accounting practices in action. On Sept. 20-21, the club sponsored a movie, The CPA, which portrayed activities of a successful certified public accountant. Other officers welcoming new members to the club are Patrick Boland, treasurer, and Byron Francoeur, secretary.

The Camera club held its first meeting of the 1960-1961 school year at which the purposes of the club were explained to the new members by the president—Tom Long. It was declared that supplies for near-wholesale prices are available to all school students but that the use of the darkroom is restricted to club members. Private instruction concerning darkroom procedure is available for club members from those with previous experience.

Plans for student participation in a raffle or bingo were discussed and left open until the next meeting. At that time membership during the first semester will be discontinued. Before the meeting was adjourned, an idea was proposed concerning club members taking pictures at various school events.

Record mixer brings 451 girls to campus

The mixer last Saturday evening was the largest ever held on the St. Joe campus. The 451 coeds from seven colleges viewed the St. Joe-DePauw game in the afternoon, mingled with the St. Joe men in the evening and stayed overnight in 17 motels as far away as Monticello and Morocco.

The largest number of girls attending any previous mixer was 327, a record set last year. Although the Rec hall was extremely crowded all present appeared to have a very enjoyable time. Recorded music was played and well received by the dancers.

Dave Hoover, who arranged the affair, has scheduled another, smaller mixer for Oct. 15 after the Indiana State game. The Student Council will consider hiring a band for the affair at its next meeting.

The girls who attended Saturday's mixer were from Nazareth, St.-Mary-of-the-Woods, Rosary, Barat, Mundelein and Xavier colleges and the St. Joseph's Calumet Center.

Profs pass summer by traveling, writing, doing research

By JOHN BABIONE

Five members of the college faculty spent the summer in Europe. Fathers Joseph Kenkel and Alvin Druhman toured western Europe. Father Druhman also explored Stratford on Avon. Father Aloys Dirksen traveled in Europe and the Near East to gain background for his teaching of the scripture. Mr. Willard Walsh and Mr. Daniel Lyons also toured Europe.

Six St. Joseph's teachers attended summer school. Mr. Ralph Capucilli, Mr. Donald Prullage, Mr. Martin Ryan and Mr. Robert Shemky studied at Purdue. Mr. Hugh Cowdin attended the State University of Iowa and Mr. Louis Gatto studied at Loyola University.

Dr. Bryce Jones was awarded a Ford Foundation fellowship and did research in economics at the University of Michigan. Dr. Jay Barton continued his genetics research here at St. Joseph's.

Fr. Robert Lechner was busy this summer at his post as editor of "Philosophy Today." Dr. Robert Kreyche wrote in Washington and California.

Several members of the faculty worked on theses and dissertations. Sr. Audrey worked on her theses at the Catholic University of America. Others working on theses were Mr. Richard Kilmer and Mr. James Farrell. Mr. Howard Phillips did research for his dissertation at the Library of Congress. Mr. John Phelps, Fr. Charles Rueve and Mr. Richard Scharf also worked on their dissertations.

75 man Glee club starts practice; concert schedule being completed

The largest Glee club in the history of St. Joseph's College has assembled this year under the direction of Fr. Lawrence Heiman, C.PP.S. The organization of 75 men has already begun practice for the programs it will present both on and off campus during the 1960-61 season.

Fr. Heiman said that all of last year's members, exclusive of graduates, have returned to the ranks this year. "With enough work" he said, "we will have a good organization."

The club provides new members with lessons in basic vocal techniques and the reading of music. Other members are encouraged to take vocal lessons to further improve their singing.

The new schedule is not yet complete. The Singing Seventeen, however will accompany the semnarian's choir for a program in Jefferson City, Mo. The whole Glee club will sing on Parent's Day and partake in the Indiana Catholic College Choral Festival, which is to be held here on campus in September. Other engagements include a Campus Christmas concert and a spring show at Barat College in Lake Forest, Ill.

Officers this year are: president, Bob Kaiser; vice-president, Ken Brand; secretary, Dave Tetrault; treasurer, Dick Rosswurm.
